

Scenery: Urban

www.cis.edu.hk/Sec/ss/Geography/Year10+/Hong_Kong_mini_guides

Lei Yue Mun Photo - 鯉魚門

Lei Yue Mun is one of a few fishing villages that has survived the rapid urbanization of Hong Kong into the modern age. This is primarily because of its established reputation revolving around the excellent seafood restaurants in its area. However, Lei Yue Mun also possesses lots of great photo opportunities from early Hong Kong settlements architecture to the modern city scene of the eastern shore of Hong Kong.

Neighborhood

Lei Yue Mun is located on the Southern tip of Kowloon across Victoria Harbour slightly west of Junk Bay. It can be reached via Ferry, Bus, Minibus, or MTR.

Getting there:

Ferry: Coral Sea Shipping Services (珊瑚海船務) provides a regular service between Sam Ka Tsuen pier and Sai Wan Ho pier. Fare are HK$4.8 per adult.

Bus: KMB Bus no. 14C between Sam Ka Tsuen and Kwun Tong.

Minibus: Red minibus service bus no. 24 available between Kwun Tong and Lei Yue Mun.

MTR: 5 minute walk from Yau Tong Station.

The fishing village of Lei Yue Mun as seen from the ferry Pier. Lei Yue Mun is

A view of Lei Yue Mun Lighthouse. It was built to warn passing ships away from the rocks on which it stands.

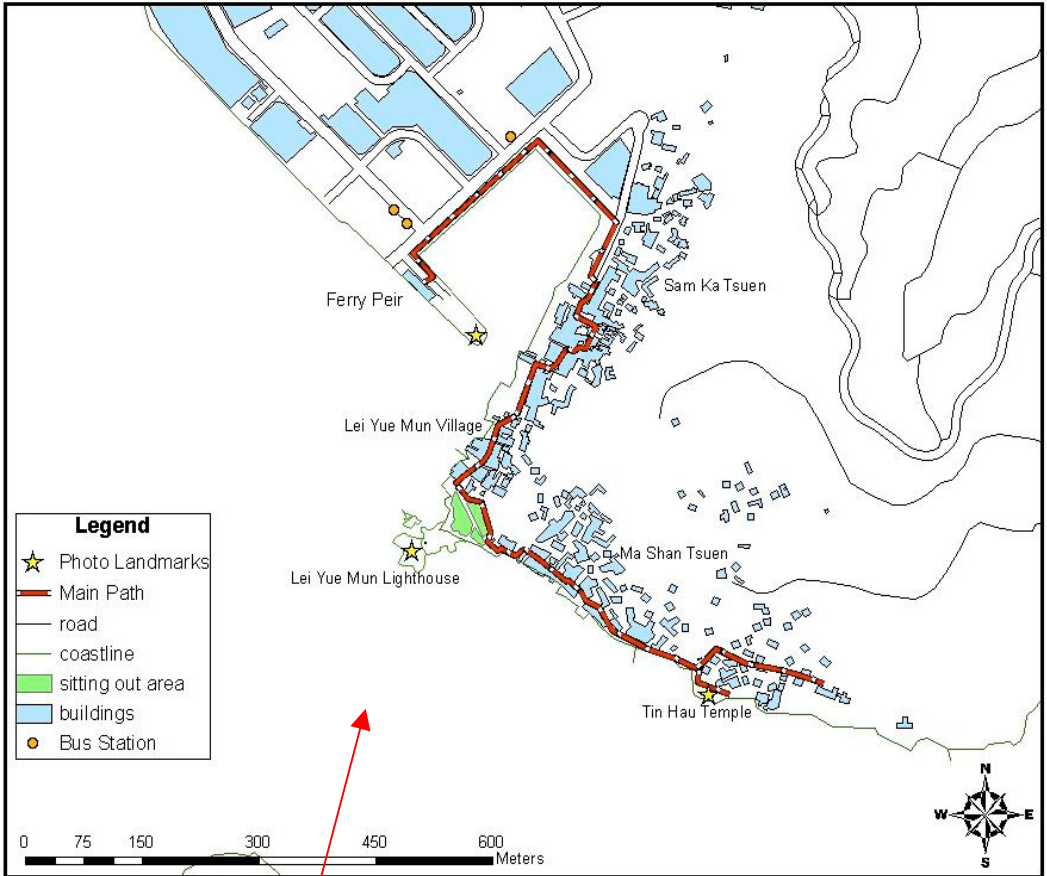

Tin Hau Temple at Lei Yue Mun. Being a fishing village this temple is a tribute to the Chinese god of the sea

Scenery: Urban

Lei Yue Mun

Travellers code of Ethics

1. Leave no litter.
2. Learn the names of your local hosts and a little of their native language

Chinese International School – contact us at: cis_info@cis.edu.hk

--James 11cs